

BRITISH SHOW DISCOURTESY

is sufficient to bar him. The judge in such case is the government receiving the ambassador and in diplomatic every member of the staff of a diplomatic corps is subject to the same.

Department Gave Reasons.

Nevertheless the department of state did transmit its reasons, and while it is not necessary to go into details it is a fact that Mr. Stuart was accused of casting aspersions on a member of the cabinet. Wilson's household. He denied the charges. Our government repeated its demand that Mr. Stuart be sent home. The case was rested on objections, not merely of the secretary of state, but a separate set of charges which had made him undesirable, so far as the president of the United States was concerned. Ordinarily, requests of this sort from the president to a foreign ambassador would be granted at once.

But Mr. Stuart stayed on for at least two months after that. He went home with his family. While the latter was in the United States, Mr. Stuart had charge of the ambassador's affairs and while it is true that he was not on the diplomatic list nor is the British diplomatic service, our government continued him to be a member of the ambassador's household and as such subject to the supervision or authority, at least, of the British ambassador.

No Mention of President.

So Mr. Stuart was not sent home and Wilson's Gray was not received. Just after the latter reached England, he wrote a letter to the London Times, supporting the viewpoint of president Wilson's opponents on the issue of neutrality. Through the document was a report to the British people on the treaty controversy in America, there was not a word in it of the president's illness and the fact that the British ambassador, Mr. Wilson, had played in the whole business, while considerable space was devoted to a justification of the viewpoint of certain senators.

Officials may minimize the importance of the Stuart incident. They will not want to give the impression that it had anything to do with the relations between the white house and ambassador Gray. But people who may be wondering why the official relations between Great Britain and the United States may not be as smooth as they should be, might find an explanation in the fact that the British empire has sent men here who have been unfortunate in their personal relations with the white house.—Copyright, 1920, The El Paso Herald.

GEDDES DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF REPORTED APPOINTMENT

LONDON, England, Feb. 21.—Sir Auckland Geddes, minister of transport service and reconstruction, who is reported to have been offered the ambassadorship to the United States in succession to Viscount Grey, informed the Associated Press today that he was "not aware of the government having arrived at any decision regarding the naming of an ambassador to Washington."

FRENCH RUSH TO SUPPORT NEW GOVERNMENT LOAN

Paris, France, Feb. 21.—(French Wireless Service).—A great rush of selling orders from clients anxious to have money available for subscription to the new loan is reported by brokers here. From the moment the banks opened their doors Thursday morning, they were filled with eager subscribers to the loan and a great rush of business has continued. One crushed effect of the new loan was a sharp rise in the exchange rate for the franc in London.

Condolences To Mrs. Peary From The President

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—President Wilson today sent this message of condolence to the widow of Rear Admiral Peary:

"Mrs. Peary, please me in extending your warmest sympathy to you and your children in the death of your distinguished husband. May the memory of his tireless and indefatigable effort in the cause of science do much to assuage your grief."

"Woodrow Wilson."

Cablegrams of condolence have been received by the widow from all over the world in the death of her illustrious husband.

Invested Canal Gages.

Admiral Peary was born in Cretion, Pa., May 6, 1856. He was graduated at Bowdoin college in 1877, and he enlisted the United States navy as civil engineer October 25, 1881. He was engineer in charge of Nicaragua ship canal surveys in 1887-8, and invested rolling lock gates for the canal.

In 1888 he made a reconnaissance of the Greenland island ice cap. He was chief of the Arctic expedition of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, June 1891, September, 1892, to the northeast angle of Greenland. He discovered and named Melville Land and Heppell Land, lying beyond Greenland, and determined the insularity of Greenland.

He made a reconnaissance of the Archipelago, the last of the great Arctic land groups, and named the northern cape, the most northerly land in the world, Cape Morris Jessup. He sailed north again in July, 1891, in S. S. Roosevelt, specially built by the Peary Arctic club of New York, and returned in October, 1894, having reached the highest north again in 62 degrees and 6 minutes north latitude.

Peary started on his eighth Arctic voyage in July, 1898, on the Roosevelt, proceeding northward to Kane Basin, through Robinson channel, crossing a winter base off Cape Sheridan, September 1, 1898, left Cape Sheridan for Cape Columbia, February 12, 1899, in five detachments, which were sent back one after another, the fourth in command of Capt. Bartlett, leaving Peary near the 6th parallel from here, with one member of the crew and four Eskimos, Peary made the final dash of 10 miles to the north pole in 38 days. The reached the pole April 6, 1899, and spent thirty hours at and beyond the pole.

TRAIN KILLS UNIDENTIFIED MAN.

Falling from the top of a box car attached to the special train bearing Gen. Manuel M. Dignese to Cuernavaca, Oaxaca on Friday after the train pulled out from Juarez, an unidentified Mexican, about 25 years old, was run over and killed. The body was brought to Juarez late Friday afternoon and an investigation is now being conducted.

STRIKE DANGER EAST.

Nogales, Ariz., Feb. 21.—Officials of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, announced that practically all danger of a strike on their lines had been eliminated. Nothing was given out concerning the terms of the settlement with train and engineers who, a few days since, demanded better wages and working conditions.

All nations used 240,000 airplanes in the war.

TRIAL HINGES ON OBTAINING JURY

Tombstone, Ariz., Feb. 21.—But one juror was obtained for the trial of the first case growing out of the Mexican deportations from the fifth venire of 400 names, and court was adjourned at noon today for the drawing of 400 more names. The new venire will make 230 names drawn as jurors for the trial.

Harry E. Wootton, who is one of 210 defendants accused of kidnapping in connection with the deportations, was the 20th juror passed. He went into the box notwithstanding he said he believed the deportations were wrong. On this statement he was challenged by the defense attorney, but the challenge was overruled by Judge Samuel L. Patton. Judge Patton took the position the answer was made to defense questioning which confused the juror.

H. McKay, of Douglas, challenged and excused for having a fixed opinion, said he believed "something bad" was done in August, July, 1917, the day 1135 striking copper miners and their sympathizers were taken together and transported from the Warren mining district to Columbus, N. M.

The venire will convene again Tuesday afternoon, when the new veniremen are ordered to report.

Garcia Lambasts the Intervention Element

La Opinion, one of the best known newspapers of Mexico, published in Veracruz, prints the following with a notice that the former Mexican consul at El Paso, now director of posts in Mexico:

"Mr. Andres Garcia, who has been consul in El Paso, Texas, who is now in Mexico City, says that the opinion of our republic in the United States has undergone a radical change. The attempts of certain elements to provoke armed intervention of the United States have been the means of turning public opinion favorably towards our country. It has been demonstrated plainly that the work of the armies of our government, Mexican citizens as well as foreign, has been based upon perfidy, as they were unable to accomplish the inquiries exploitation of our natural riches, so they dedicated themselves to a work of obstruction."

"The American public, once more, have given our government right and have thrown from their midst spurious transactions of the Mexican reactionaries who, under cover of the American flag, have tried to make of Mexico a source of their riches and with the loss of their own nationality. Even apart from the machinations of the Yankee capitalists, who have large interests in our country, the industrial population of the United States are in this opinion to have no war with our country and consequently, have mostly supported the policy of president Woodrow Wilson, which tends to maintaining the greatest harmony in his relations with Mexico."

MEXICAN FEDERAL TROOPS SURPRISE REBELS MONDAY

A scouting party of federal troops under command of Capt. Pascual Chaves, surprised a band of rebels, under the leadership of Nicolas Fernandez near Jimenez Monday, driving them off, and capturing their archives. The rebels, under command of the rebels, was killed.

Hardware Firm To Center On Jobbing Trade

The Krakauer-Zork Hardware company will go out of the retail business tonight, according to announcements made by the management of the store. The company will give its entire time and attention to the wholesale hardware business.

The Krakauer-Zork company, known for years as the Krakauer-Zork and Moyer establishment, was founded by A. Krakauer, father of Julius Krakauer.

A. Krakauer came to El Paso in 1876 and entered the hardware business, which was then conducted on the present site of the Krakauer-Zork company.

Mr. Krakauer went into the hardware business which developed into one of the largest retail and wholesale hardware stores in the southwest.

A New Hardware Store.

The retail stock and the fixtures of the retail store have been sold to the Household Hardware company, a new retail hardware store, delivery of stock and fixtures will be made Monday. The Household Hardware company will open at 25 North Stanton street.

The management of the new store expects to begin business on Monday. The new store will carry a complete line of hardware, electrical appliances and household utensils. "Before deciding to open up a store in El Paso," said Mr. Harkness, "representatives of the company visited cities along the coast and in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, then decided unquestionably that El Paso was the most logical place for a new business."

"As it is a well-known fact that there is a constant demand for hardware and household goods, the growth of this city is certain to be rapid and solid and almost unlimited."

PACKER REGULATION BILL IS REPORTED IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Increased government supervision over the packing industry has been recommended to the senate Friday by senator Granger, Republican, of North Dakota, by reporting favorably the Keegan-Candlish bill as reauthorized by the agriculture committee.

Under its provisions a federal livestock commission would be created to supervise the packers, livestock markets and market agencies; and the packers would be prohibited from dealing in livestock other than that of the stock products where competition would be increased from apportioning territory for packers or arranging or agreeing to control prices, and from driving competitors out of business. It would also require them within two years after final passage of the bill to relinquish ownership or interests in stockyards.

"The measure would be established for this industry," the report said, "degree of public supervision comparable to that which has long been exercised over the railroad and the interstate commerce commission."

GREAT LOBBIES ACTIVE ON RAILROAD BILL—BLANTON

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Representative Blanton, of Texas, who characterized Thursday's discussion between house members and union leaders as the "compromise caucus," told the house Friday that "Gompers has issued his usual ultimatum to those who voted for the Anderson amendment to the original bill to stand pat."

Blanton charged that the great labor lobbies ever known have been at work in Washington since congress began considering the railroad bill. "There has been a powerful lobby in the interests of the railroad owners and another in behalf of the employees of the roads," he said, "but there has been no lobby for the public."

ARGENTINE SHIP STRIKERS MEET DEFY OF OPERATORS

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Feb. 21.—The strike of the stevedores of the Mihanovich Steamship company, which has been in progress since last Saturday, is continuing heavy losses to shippers, having virtually paralyzed Argentine commerce with the coast and river ports. Many perishable cargoes have been ruined while others are piled up in the warehouses.

The company is demanding government intervention, its officials saying they are permitting 1500 strikers to remain aboard their ships. If the men will not work Monday they will discharge them and lay up all the vessels of the line, numbering 250.

CAR SERVICE URGES QUICK UNLOADING OF SHIPMENTS

The shortage of coal carriers on the railroads has brought forth a plea from W. C. Kendall, of the car service section of the railroad administration, that all dealers unload their cars on arrival, so that the car may be sent directly back to the mines.

HIGH INCREASE EXPECTED IN FREIGHT SHIPMENTS TO EL PASO

With the announcement of the settlement of the dock workers strike at Galveston, it is expected that there will be a sudden influx of freight for El Paso which has been piling up on the docks for the past two weeks.

COURT ISSUES INJUNCTION AGAINST PEARL HARDWICK

An injunction restraining Pearl Hardwick, former proprietress of the Hardwick hotel, from conducting any hotel or rooming house in El Paso for immoral purposes was issued Saturday by Judge W. D. Howe of the 54th district court.

The application for an injunction against Pearl Hardwick was made since it was established to the satisfaction of the court that the Hardwick hotel had been taken over by Mrs. Thomas from Mrs. Hardwick, and since the transfer no complaints have been received to the effect that rooms were being rented for anything other than legal purposes.

Bedroom Suites of Distinction

The charming lines of the Queen Anne period are depicted in the illustration above, which, however, does not show you the ingenuity of the designers in adapting the furniture to modern ideas. This furniture is so fine that a brief description of each article is not amiss. The styles are Queen Anne and Louis XVI, in brown mahogany and walnut finish.

The BED is full size and comes in four-poster and panel designs. The DRESSER is large base with commodious drawers. Accurately made to the smallest detail. Has a large plate glass mirror.
The combination VANITY DRESSER and DRESSING TABLE is a departure which will instantly meet with the favor of the most fastidious and satisfy the most practical.
The CHEFFERETTE is designed with the thought of convenience as well as beauty. The sliding trays for the larger articles and the receptacles for smaller articles such as cuff buttons, pins, etc., will excite your admiration. For those who are not able to secure a house to their liking we suggest this bedroom furniture as a means of making the old bedroom attractive. Its appealing beauty and charm must be seen to be appreciated.
